Exclusively for the Sentinel.

From our Extra of Saturday morning.

Boston, Oct. 22—8 p.m.

On Tuesday, Mr. Webster was considered by his physician as not in immediate danger. There was a probability of his being able to resume public business a few days; but before evening his disorder, which is inflammation of the bowels, continued to grow worse, until yesterday, when Dr. Jeffreys became alarmed.

Mr. Webster's wife and son are with him, and Dr. Warren left here for Marshfield this morning. The distinguished Statesman is fully aware of his danger, and his intellect is unclouded. He is about to leave for New York.

A special meeting of the Executive Committee was called early this morning. It was resolved, in compliance with the wishes of Mr. Webster's family and friends, that all political action be suspended for the present. During last night Mr. Webster was very sick, but at 5 o'clock this P.M. when the messenger left Marshfield, he was asleep. He yesterday prepared a bundle of documents to be despatched to Washington.

Boston, 23d, 9 A.M.—

We learn from New York this A.M. that Hon. Daniel Webster is still very low.

LETTER TO THE CHIEF OF POLICE LINE.

Boston, 23, 10 A.M.—

Mr. Webster was seized with a severe attack of vomiting, at about 3 o'clock this morning, and is sinking rapidly.

LATER!

Boston, 23d, 10 A.M.—

Mr. Webster was seized with a severe attack of vomiting, at about 3 o'clock this morning, and is sinking rapidly.

LETTER TO THE CHIEF OF POLICE LINE.

Later from Marshfield.

Mr. Webster's Recovery Hopeless.

1/2 part of the following Dispatch reached us by the speed Line:

Boston, 23d Oct.—9 A.M.

Advice from Marshfield to 8:30 o'clock last evening, at which time Mr. Webster remained the same as during the day, but with hopes of recovery.

Journal Office, Boston, 10 A.M.

The following letter dated Marshfield, Saturday morning at 10 o'clock, from our reporter, and may be relied upon:

I regret to inform you that, since my last letter, dated 2 P.M., yesterday, Mr. Webster is even failing, and is now very low. The hour of his departure is nigh.

The report of his physicians is that he has failed during the night, and is quite low this morning. He is now 10 minutes past 6, asleep.

Last night, about 11 o'clock, he had another attack of vomiting, and between 2 & 2 1/2 past 2 and 3 A.M., he had a very severe attack, in which he suffered greatly, and which left him weak and exhausted. He has conversed during the night with his physicians about his condition, and appears calm and collected.

Boston Transcript Office, 10 A.M.—The death of Mr. Webster is momentarily expected. The special express has just arrived from Marshfield and states that his physicians are of the opinion that he will not survive an hour.

STILL FUMETTE FROM MR. WEBSTER.

At 8 o'clock Saturday evening we received a dispatch dated New York, Oct. 23, no hour mentioned, fully confirming the above. The despatch was with reference to Saturday morning:

He was free from pain and convalesced freely with his friends around his bedside, and more than once reproached his faithful nurse for not retiring to bed. He is aware of his condition, as is evident from the consolations he is constantly addressing to his mourning family and friends.

Genuinely, in the presence of those not his relatives, he speaks of public matters, which clearly shows that the welfare of his country is as pleasant and dear to him as ever.

Boston, 23, 3 P.M.—

The express attached to the Journal office has just arrived, having left Marshfield at 11 A.M., and states that Mr. Webster is gradually sinking. It is evident that in a few hours all will be over. His mind remains calm, and he is tranquil and happy.

The illustrious invalid is now asleep quietly, but fears of terrible suffering on his part are entertained by his friends, should he again be seized with vomiting.

It was suggested to Mr. W. that he make his will to which he gave his consent, but it is hardly possible that he will have sufficient strength to do it.

Boston, 6 P.M.

Advice to 2 P.M. has just been received, which confirms the reports of Mr. W. critical condition. The great statesman is gradually but surely sinking. It is thought he may survive through the night though it seems impossible.

Moutier, 23d.

Gov. Fairbanks has called a special election for member of Congress in the 3d District, on the 2d of November.

Baltimore, Oct. 23.

The opening of the Hanover R. R. was celebrated yesterday evening.

John Williams, the negro, was executed at Richmond yesterday. Lucy Randolph, sentenced to execution with him, was reprieved by the Governor till the 12th of November.

The publication of the Boston Times was suspended to-day.

New-York, 23d Oct.

The steamer Franklin sailed to-day for Southampton, with 100 passengers and $60,000 in specie.

Washington, 23d Oct.

The rumor here is that President Fillmore will soon leave with the Whig nomination, and to send Wm. C. to Congress to support the administration.

The membership of the Senate will soon leave for Texas, to check the mounting Indians.

Philadelphia, Oct. 23d.

The steamer City of Glasgow sailed to-day to Liverpool with 45 passengers and $60,000 in specie.
